

Rita Will Have to Hide Gams To Be McCoy as Moslem Ma

By KERMIT JAEDIKER

Let's face it, men. Rita Hayworth's legs may have to go into hiding.

Shaikh Daoud Ahmed Faisal, spiritual head of the Islamic Mission of America, 143 State St., Brooklyn, declared yesterday that if the screen star raises her daughter to be a Moslem, she will have to veil those gorgeous gams of hers in a thing called a "kamis." A Kamis is a loose-fitting, chemise-like and very, very long affair which covers just about everything but the face and hands.

The red-haired actresses' lawyer, Bartley Crum, has said Rita agreed to raise her 15-month-old daughter, Yasmin, in the Moslem faith of her father, Prince Aly Khan. In turn, the Prince is requested to set up a $3,000,000 trust fund for Yasmin when he and Rita are unhitched. Rita, who is out in Nevada, is expected to start divorce proceedings shortly after establishing Nevada residence.

Should Rita decide to bring up Yasmin in the tenets of Islam, said the Shaikh, she must practically become a Moslem herself. Moslem law requires that a child raised in the faith must be brought up in a Moslem environment.

This means that Rita would not only have to stop exposing her legs. She would also have to give up bathing suits, pork and those palpitating screen kisses.

"It is immoral for a man to kiss a woman in public," said the Shaikh. He was talking about Moslems, of course.

Must Catch Up on Koran.

Another thing, went on the Shaikh, Rita, as a Moslem, would never imbibe anything intoxicating. She would not be permitted to smoke. And she would be expected to read the Koran.